

Who are trying to kid with such blatant bullshit?

Dear Friends of the Media

( the only friend you have are in your club, the rest of us refuse to associate with such as yourselves)

It must have been a long day for you too.

(No, we are not obsess with such trivial matters and with such a meanie person)

It is undeniable that Rui En did not attempt to run away from the scene

(The only thing undeniable here is her fan will deny and protect her even if she murdered someone)

I believe you should have seen the photos at the carpark and statement from Hype Records, there's no denial that Rui En never intended to run away. Let's set the records right, one by one.

(Again, you can repeatedly use the word undeniable, show that you are in denial....this is the second time this year, first time, the victim had to post her carplat online then she contact and pay up, she clames that she did not know she hit another vehicle....are you a driver? your vehicle comes into contact you can feel it and will know not only you hit someone but also which direction and how hard,....you want to bullshit who? The only reason why she pay up is because she was exposed,....That is undeniable,.....So we establish that she ran off once,...now you want to say she never intended to run away? Again who are you trying to kid?)

She was driving against the direction of the exit, as you can tell from the position of the car in the photos. There's nothing to debate about this.

(The car was shifted like she said, and it does not matter which direction she was facing,...and if alcohol was involved she can't even control the car properly you telling us about the direction she face? And after the car was shifted?)

If you saw the photos, you would agree that if she had not repositioned her car, it would cause fellow residents inconvenience, she was just hoping to not impose on more people.

(there you go, the car was repositioned, so why the fuck you mention the direction she was facing? so nice of her not wanting to imposed on people, so considerate.....we would rather she behave herself, don't drink and drive and don't be arrogant )

Why didn't Rui En alert Mr Barroom before repositioning her car

(Because she panic and wanted to escape )

You might wonder, why didn't she alert the motorcyclist before repositioning her car. If you recall from the motorcyclist's account with Wannabe, he was not by his bike. He was walking towards his bike when the point of contact happened.

(what is there to wonder, like the last accident, she panic and with alcohol in her system cause an accident, the last thing in her mind was alerting anyone)

So Rui En had no idea who to approach. If you were her, and there's empty lots right after the turn, won't you be considerate enough to park your car there before resolving the issue?

(For fuck sakes,....is your idol retarded? after hitting another vehicle,instead of getting inspecting the damage first, looking around to see what she hit, she wants to move the vehicle? what if she knock someone down? she would be dragging the persons body under the vehicle....and all this shows she has no situational awareness....she has no business driving a tricycle much less a car)

Do you know who I am?

(Now the whole sg knows)

Understandably, Mr Bahrom was anxious and misunderstood her intention as running away, hence he chased after her car, banging on her windows. I don't know about you, but if I am the driver, I might be a little intimidated.

(misunderstood? you must take the sg public as idiots to believe this bull, you hit a vehicle, without stoping, and tried to drive off, there is no misunderstanding,...and she can be as intimidated as she like, that is a non issue)

When Rui En asked Mr Bahrom if he knew who she was, there was no provocative intention. It was simply because she's a public figure and a resident there, so people who knows who she is knows that she has no escape, that she will not run away. Otherwise, why would she drive against the direction of exit?

(Yea, sure, let me explain to you why its bullshit,.... if she wanted to let him know she won't run, simple, stop the vehicle and disembark and then exchange details, to expect the public to accept that nonsense is insulting .....like telling people,..what you staring at?.....Oh I just wanted to know what he was looking at....again with the direction, she is panicking and had alcohol in her system, she is not fit to drive, she can face any direction it does not matter)

Unfortunately, Mr Bahrom had already misunderstood Rui En from the onset as attempting to drive off, hence when she asked the question, he reacted accordingly. She could have been more straightforward to inform of her identity, but there's no telling now if the response might be, "so what?"

(It unfortunate alright, but not for the bullshit excuses you state, no, there is no misunderstanding, and by you saying she could inform him her identity and get a so what reaction,...of course, nobody gives a fuck, she should have done what every motorist do,...stop disembark and exchange information,...if she is unaware of the procedure, she has no business driving)

What would have happened if she wasn't Rui En

(You really believe your idol is some sort of VIP or wha? and even so the law still applies,...so what the fuck you mention that for? it does not matter who cause the accident,...the process is the same)

Car drivers ought to know this.

(You dare say that when your idol knows jack shit)

For such accidents involving stationary vehicle, with no injury, no police report is required and private settlement is the norm. Failing which, the victim can claim from the insurance company of the opposite party. Hence, just like any car owner who might be involved in similar accidents, Rui En offered a $2000 compensation. She is no car mechanic, she has no idea how much is considered appropriate.

(You must be some special kind of stupid, Since as you mention your idol is as ignorant as her fan club members, why offer an amount? She has no clue but she feels like 2k is the appropriate amount? why 2k? as she has no idea how much the repair would cost? Thats how the public knows you are making this shit up!

What happened during the negotiation

(Your idol tries to belittle Mr Bahrom by offering an amount that she have no clue on plus add salt to the injury by saying 'its cash you know' as if she could refuse to pay and that her offer is generous of her .... condescending bitch, which is exactly why Mr Bahrom is pissed and rightfully so )

Mr Bahrom, requested for $6000 instead. Which was 300% of what Rui En had initially offered. At this point, Mr Bahrom is already aware that she is a celebrity.

(And as the owner of the bike he would have a better idea on the cost, he is not at fault for the accident, there is no need for him to compromise in anyway, nor should he be expected to, if your idol disagree, fine, claim her insurance....by mentioning 300% and at this point he knows she is a celebrity is disingenuous of you,...you are insinuating that Mr Bahrom is being greedy,....its not his fault at all, and you expect him to be out of pocket for your idol's sake? really what bullfuck entitled attitude is that? Don'y try to imply greed when you have no clue yourself. Bias much?

Most of us commoners would probably counter propose and negotiate. Hence, Rui En put Mr Bahrom on phone with a contact who better understand what is appropriate. It shows that Rui En doesn't have the experience to deal with accidents, you are either a car fanatic or an experienced accident-prone driver to know these.

(your idol is not royalty so who are you referring to as commoner? you can try to offer, Mr Bahrom has no obligation to accept, it is totally up to him. Her ignorance is of no concern to anyone and as a motorist, it would be prudent to find out before you get into an accident,...it just highlights how irresponsible your idol is)

When was the police call made

At this juncture, Mr Bahrom's sister arrived at the carpark and saw her brother's bike on the floor and Mr Bahrom having a negotiation with a chinese lady. Also anxious, she called the police. Oblivious that her brother was negotiating for compensation with Rui En.

(And what are you implying here? that she should not call the police? that it is wrong to call the police? Even if you are trying to imply that there is no need to, if your idol has nothing to fear or hide, what's wrong with getting the police involved? Is your idol worried about the amount she drank and would get into further trouble? I can see no other reason for fearing police involvement

The police arrived and what happens after that is not appropriate for me to comment when investigations are ongoing.

(The police arrived and your idol should have ask them....do you know who I am? maybe they are also fans and can negotiate

Eyewitnesses' accounts as read from the media

From the papers, I read eyewitnesses' accounts that Rui En was able to park her car properly before the police arrived and it was a calm negotiation between Rui En and Mr Bahrom. There was no provocative confrontation at this point.

(We must be reading differing accounts then)

I urge you, my friends, to exercise prudence and empathy with your pen and keyboards.

(I urge you to get a life but if you could you already would so I shan't)

Is the media and public playing the role of vigilantes, dealing her additional punishment and holding her accountable beyond the law?

(your idol is a celebrity and therefore a public figure, the public would form whatever opinion of her as they see fit, and can play vigilante as long as they don't break any laws,...how is that doing additional punishment? or holding her accountable beyond the law? She fucks up big time in public and expects privacy? from a public figure? If your idol cannot handle bad publicity then she should either behave herself or choose another profession where she is not in the limelight,....this got to be the biggest joke ever, expecting the public ignore her misbehavior as a celebrity,...own up to her own responsibility instead of asking the public for pity,.... pathetic!

Yes, I am concerned. I am deeply concerned that Rui En is sentenced to state of no redemption because of extensive reports, some factual, some sensationalised, some misleading.

(and how is that any of our concern? If your idol is truly innocent, she could always come clean and clear up and misunderstanding, her reputation is none of our concern )

On the law

No one is above the law.

(We know that, tell that to your idol)

If investigations reveal that she has indeed breached the law, she will have to face the legal punishment herself. Is it necessary for media to punish her twice? Is this the so called justice?

(The media is doing its job by reporting her bullshit, or are you saying that they should be censored to protect your idol? Bad publicity is not punishment when your idol is the one causing the drama,....and what justice are you talking about? in what way is reporting her misdeeds injustice? If your idol cannot handle being in the media,...wtf is she doing as an actress? You want to silent the media because of her? just who the fuck do you think she is? And who are you to call for it? her fans are exactly like her ....arrogant and entitled

If investigations conclude that she is innocent, what can be done after the round of bashing, would that help?

(What are you expecting the public to help with? protecting her image? her reputation? Again, you have no clue about what comes with being a celebrity,...if she is innocent that clears her from wrong doing, and you have no control over what the public say or not say, It is there right to, you may not like it, it does not matter what you like, freedom of speech, if you understand that you would not come up with such nonsense....)

Notable points that you might have missed

In your time pressed attempt to cover this “what should have been a no news worth car accident if a public figure wasn’t involved” incident, I would like to highlight some points which you might have missed out.

(precisely, if it was not a public figure its not news worthy, and since it involves a public figure, doesn’t that make it news worthy then?)

1. Besides the fact that Rui En did not attempt to run away,

(Thats not a fact, its what you hope to convince the public with your bullshit, note the difference between fact and propaganda)

2. Or the fact that her “do you know who I am?” has been misinterpreted,

(Again, look up the difference between facts and propaganda)

3. Rui En and her managers did not do the disappearance act, when media tried to contact Hype Records, they did not hang up the phone, or refuse to reply.

(It would only cause more damage to whatever left of her reputation if she should do that (hide), and how is it by doing so any merit to your idol?)

4. Hype Records also promptly released a statement to the media and shared the details that could be shared in view of pending investigations. They have been forthcoming.

(Its called damage control, again how is that any merit to your idol?)

5. There is no lies or cover-ups here. Please do not forget this.

(Your appeal contains nothing else BUT lies and cover up as i have shown)

6. In many similar car accidents, you will hear both parties trying to pinpoint the weakest links of the opposite party's account, in order to "gain points".

(When the fault of the accident is debatable, when it is clearly the fault of 1, there is no room for manoeuvre, your idol hit Mr Bahrom bike, there is nothing for Mr Bahrom to pinpoint, this case is clear cut, he will get full compensation so what is there for him to pinpoint? He is just pissed off with your idols attempt to run and aggront attitude,....but pointing this out it does not give him any benefit as in extra claim so what the fuck is there for Mr Bahrom to "gain points" the only weak ass attempt comes from your idol and her braindead club members)

But there has been no accusation or questioning of Mr Bahrom's account here. Why? Because no matter how Mr Bahrom reacts, however intimidating it might be (at least to me), Rui En accepts her responsibility for knocking down his bike.

(Are we suppose to doubt the fact that his bike was hit by your idol? you say that as if your idol have any choice in accepting responsibility, not forgetting she tried to dodge it in the first place,.....there is no doubt on Mr Bahrom account as he gains nothing by fabricating anything, unlike your idol, ....tell me, what are we suppose to doubt on Mr Bahrom's account, and what does he have to gain for it?)

She doesn't shirk responsibilities. That's Rui En for you.

(And of course as the president of her fan club your sentiments towards her are totally unbiased, and we should take it from you)

7. The car accident is most unfortunate, but there's no denying that there is no compromising of Rui En's integrity. She remains the responsible person, who would account for her actions and considerate enough to reposition her car so as to not impose on other residents.

(There is no denying that the whole lot of her fans and her are in denial as we can see, responsible is not what comes to mind when we think of her and her consideration to move the car out of the way as to not impose on others is a failed escaped attempt which you attempt to put a positive spin on ....who the fuck are you trying to bull here?)

8. I just saw on Wanbao & Shinmin's covers about Rui En's apology. I have not read the content so I can't comment but that apology, yes that's the Rui En I know. No doubt that it was going to come. In life, everyone makes mistakes, it is important to admit and learn from it.

(She is totally in the wrong, any decent person would apologize ...and as a celebrity expected .....and is also a desperate attempt to gain sympathy)

My plea

I sincerely hope that media will exercise empathy in this case. Be fair to both Mr Bahrom and Rui En, let the police do their unbiased investigation. Rui En will not shy away from her responsibilities. You need not worry about this.

(What sort of empathy are you expecting? To publish your propaganda? Your idol has attempted twice this year to escape her responsibilities, I don't see why the media should help her accomplish that....the public is not worried, its your idol and her fan club that is worried)

Star Awards

This is really really unfortunate. You would never understand how tough it is to win "All Time Favourite Artiste Award". 10 wins and more than 10 years before our moment finally arrives.

(all that you mention is none of the publics concern and frankly trivial non issues, what is important to your club and your idol is none of the publics concern )

Do you know how much this means to us fans? You probably will never understand totally, but again, I seek your empathy.

(Again how is that any of the publics concern, we do are not oblige to cater to you, and after being disingenuous with the public and treating them like fools you are for empathy?)

This was meant to be our night. It was supposed to be our once-in-a-lifetime moment, there's no way anyone can return this experience to us if they ruin it. Must you?

(The modesty of you imbeciles is overpowering,.....suppose to be your night,...a birth right? and its your idol that fuck it up, not the media, not the public, we are only spectators to this debacle)

We have been looking forward to this for the past year, let us off, let us fans have a memorable night we deserve. Please. Really.

(its your idol that let you down, why do you expect the public to do? and that entitled attitude.....you deserve, does not sit well with the public)

I'm genuinely pleading you.

(And I'm genuinely enjoying exposing your bullshit)

Thank you.

(you are most welcome)

Regards

Xinyi

President

RBKD – The Official Fan Club of Rui En

(The public)